

Dear reader,

This is the fourth ACEOT newsletter. It contains more details of the following lecture series:

Introduction to Orthodox Theology: Apophasis and Theosis

Revd. Prof. Andrew Louth will give the second lecture ("Dionysios the Areopagite and Neoplatonism") in this series on Friday 17 December (not Thursday 16 December) at 19:00 hours in room 13A-13 of the VU University Amsterdam.

The third (on St Maximos Confessor) is on 20 January 2010 and the final (on St Gregory Palamas) on 17 February 2010.

From the website (www.aceot.nl) you can download the lecture handout of the first lecture (on St Athanasios of Alexandria, held on 18 November) and the lecture handout for the second lecture (Friday 17 December). Please register beforehand through the website or by replying to this email.

Art and Spirituality of the Russian Orthodox Tradition

This special academic lecture series will take place in 2011 at the museum Hermitage Amsterdam on the following Saturday afternoons:

16 March: general introduction and introduction to Russian Orthodox tradition

16 April: images and icons

21 May: liturgy and music

18 June: monasticism and spirituality

Please visit the ACEOT-website for more details.

You can unsubscribe from this newsletter at www.aceot.nl.